Qualified Charitable Distribution (QCD)

Make a gift to Carleton directly from your IRA
Pay no taxes on the transfer
Count the gift toward your required minimum distribution (RMD)

How You Benefit
• Your gifts may count toward your RMD but do not count as income for federal income tax purposes.
• If you have already used up your charitable deductions or do not itemize your deductions, you can use QCDs to make any outright gift.
• If you are age 70 1/2 or older and you would like to make charitable gifts (such as IRA, 401(k), 403(b), or TIAA-CREF plans) to Carleton and other charities. Use other assets (such as insurance, stock, or real estate) to make bequests to family members and friends.

Planning Tips
• QCDs are tax-neutral for federal tax purposes—you don’t have to report them as income, and they are not eligible for charitable income tax deductions. State laws vary, however.
• QCDs cannot be used to establish or add to any life income gift (a gift annuity or unitrust).
• If you dream of creating an even greater legacy at Carleton, consider making gifts over multiple years. For example, you could make QCDs over three years to meet the $250,000 suggested minimum for establishing a named endowed scholarship.
• If you would like to donate funds currently held in a 401(k), 403(b), or other retirement account, roll them into an IRA first, then make your QCD from the IRA.

Maximum Gift
You can give up to $100,000 to 501(c)(3) charities, such as Carleton, each year from your IRAs.

How to Do It
If you are age 70 1/2 or older and you would like to make a QCD from your IRA, contact your plan administrator for the appropriate form. You may need to provide the following information about Carleton:

Legal name: Carleton College
Address: One North College Street
          Northfield, MN 55057
Tax ID#: 41-0694747

Timing
The legal date of your gift is the date it leaves your IRA account. If you are making a QCD to satisfy your RMD, be sure to do so well before calendar year-end.

For many Carls, bonds with professors extend beyond the classroom. For Marilyn Moyle ’66, a bond with English professor Harriet Sheridan reached all the way home.

“She just took me in,” Moyle recalls. Sheridan—who later became dean of the college—and her husband, English professor Phil Sheridan, made a room for Moyle in their house. In exchange, she looked after their children and tended the pets in their basement “zoo” when the Sheridans went on vacation. “I was really happy,” Moyle says. “It would have been a huge mistake to drop out.” Yet just a few months earlier, she’d been almost convinced she needed to. She had been struggling with classes and waking up at 5 a.m. every morning for her job in the dining hall. Moyle was the daughter of a cement finisher and a high school attendance secretary, who had told her at age 5 that she’d have to pay for college herself.

“I am really grateful I had to work my way through college,” Moyle says, “because it kept me grounded, even when it was hard.” Happy with her job and living arrangements, Moyle found her academic footing thanks again to Sheridan.

“Set on this path, Moyle earned her teaching certificate. She married her sweetheart, Peter Moyle, the day after graduation. She heard from Sheridan from time to time, who told her once, “You’re a survivor.” Marilyn and Peter Moyle settled in Davis, California, where he taught fish biology at the university. She devoted herself to the art community, her children, and advocacy for mental health issues. When she heard about Carleton’s TRIO program, she wanted to do something similar to help students like her, who have to work hard to attend Carleton. She also wanted to honor the couple who shaped so much of her time on campus.

Her 50th reunion was the perfect time to establish the Harriet and Philip Sheridan Endowed Scholarship Fund.

OUR STORIES OF IMPACT
Supporting Carleton through QCD

The Carleton community has been my rock. Carleton just totally changed my life, and the connection has stayed with me the whole time.”

Qualified Charitable Distribution (QCD)

Make a gift to Carleton directly from your IRA | Pay no taxes on the transfer | Count the gift toward your required minimum distribution (RMD)

How You Benefit
- Your gifts may count toward your RMD but do not count as income for federal income tax purposes.
- If you have already used up your charitable deductions or do not itemize your deductions, you can still make gifts through a QCD.
- You can use QCDs to make any outright gift, including:
  » Alumni Annual Fund gifts
  » 50th Reunion gifts
  » Pledge payments
  » Gifts to scholarships or other endowed funds

Maximum Gift
You can give up to $100,000 to 501 (c)(3) charities, such as Carleton, each year from your IRAs.

How to Do It
If you are age 70 1/2 or older and you would like to make a QCD from your IRA, contact your plan administrator for the appropriate form. You may need to provide the following information about Carleton:
- Legal name: Carleton College
- Address: Gift Accounting
  One North College Street
  Northfield, MN 55057
- Tax ID#: 41-0694747

Timing
The legal date of your gift is the date it leaves your IRA account. If you are making a QCD to satisfy your RMD, be sure to do so well before calendar year-end.

Planning Tips
- QCDs are tax-neutral for federal tax purposes—you don’t have to report them as income, and they are not eligible for charitable income tax deductions. State laws vary, however.
- QCDs cannot be used to establish or add to any life income gift (a gift annuity or unitrust).
- If you dream of creating an even greater legacy at Carleton, consider making gifts over multiple years. For example, you could make QCDs over three years to meet the $250,000 suggested minimum for establishing a named endowed scholarship.
- If you would like to donate funds currently held in a 401(k), 403(b), or other retirement account, roll them into an IRA first, then make your QCD from the IRA.

Maximize Your Bequests
- If you leave retirement plan assets to your family or friends after your death, these gifts may be reduced by income and estate taxes.
- To avoid double taxation, leave retirement assets (such as IRA, 401(k), 403(b), or TIAA-CREF plans) to Carleton and other charities. Use other assets (such as insurance, stock, or real estate) to make bequests to family members and friends.
